

ADDITIONAL BENEFITS

- Annual event for writers and advisors
- Writer retains rights to published article
- Current developments in water law
- Collaboration among law schools
- Networking with variety of private water firms, nonprofit organizations and public agencies
- Members of the professional community may submit independent entries

CALIFORNIA WATER LAW JOURNAL

Visit Us:

www.waterlawjournal.com

E-mail Us:

waterlawjournal@gmail.com

CALIFORNIA WATER LAW JOURNAL

Learn and Write About Legal Issues
in Water Law

ANDRE SALVADOR NOV. 30, 2006

MISSION STATEMENT

The Water Law Journal provides a unique forum for high quality water law research and academic discourse between students and professionals, and the opportunity to publish candid and current legal analyses.

Our vision is to provide a means for students, attorneys and policy makers to exchange information, share perspectives, and develop writing and analytical skills as a professional community.

STUDENT MANAGEMENT AND PARTICIPATION

Students at each participating law school will solicit Journal articles.

Students at the University of the Pacific, McGeorge School of Law will manage the online site and Journal administration.

BOARD OF ADVISORS

The article review process will be facilitated by the Journal's Board of Advisors.

The Board of Advisors is composed of attorneys from California water firms, nonprofit organizations and public agencies.

SUBMITTING AN ENTRY

To submit an entry, please e-mail the Journal at waterlawjournal@gmail.com with the following information:

1. Name, affiliation and contact information
2. Brief summary of proposed article
3. Brief explanation of why the entry would be interesting, relevant and timely
4. Whether the author has previously published an article on the same topic

The Journal reserves the right to accept or reject proposed articles, and has final editing authority.

ENTRY CRITERIA

- 1000-2000 words per article
- Endnotes using Bluebook citation style
- Accurate facts and figures
- Respectful dialogue